

Interdisciplinary panel discuss:

Early intervention and support for people who experience workplace bullying

The Mental Health Professionals' Network together with Safe Work Australia is pleased to offer this FREE professional development webinar for mental health practitioners.

Date: Wednesday July 27th 2016

Time: 7:15 - 8:30 PM (AEST)

The webinar will discuss a case study and explore key principles and issues in understanding early intervention and how to support those who experience workplace bullying.

Drawing on a wide range of professional experiences, the interdisciplinary panel will include:

- Dr. Nigel Strauss (Occupational Psychiatrist)
- Dr. Anne Wyatt (OH&S Consultant)
- Dr. Peter Cotton (Psychologist)
- Dr. Neil Ozanne (GP/Occupational Physician)

An interdisciplinary panel will define workplace bullying and harassment, discuss the legal context, reporting requirements, and how to access information. They will discuss implementing best practice and strategies to improve successful early intervention, and identify tips and challenges on how to best support the well-being of people who experience workplace bullying.

No need to travel to benefit from this free PD opportunity. Simply register and log in anywhere you have a computer or tablet with high speed internet connection.
